Newsletter no. 9 Autumn Term

Friday 11th November 2022

Our value this half term is Respect

Dear Parents and Carers

With great sadness I would like to inform you that Mrs Susannah Fornasiero will be leaving us at the end of November. Susannah has been working in the office here at Witley for over 13 years and in the nicest possible way seems like part of the furniture! She will be greatly missed and we are extremely grateful for her hard work and commitment to Witley Infant School for all these years. I am sure you will all want to join us in thanking her and saying goodbye at the end of the month.

Next week is anti-bullying week and here at Witley we are focusing on positive friendships by turning BLUE!

'be lovely and understanding to everyone'
which promotes our value of respect this term.

Next Friday, 18th all children are invited to wear something blue, maybe a blue top, blue socks or blue shoes! Or something blue in your hair?

As parents and carers we all want our children to be happy and safe, and it is natural to worry about bullying - particularly if we have experienced bullying ourselves or think our child may be more vulnerable to bullying. The good news is you are not alone! The Anti-Bullying Alliance and its members are here to work with children, families, and schools to help keep children safe.

Every November schools throughout the United Kingdom take part in Anti-Bullying Week. This is an opportunity to spotlight bullying and consider the steps we can take together to stop it. Anti-Bullying Week 2022 will be taking place from Monday 14th to Friday 18th November, with the theme 'Reach Out'.

As a parent or carer, you are a vital piece of the puzzle in tackling bullying. You have a unique role to play in guiding and supporting your child through their school years and there are many positive steps you can take to help keep your child safe from bullying and harm. One of the steps is knowing when to ask for support. Talking to your child about who they can talk to will really help. Encourage them to tell their adult if they are worried about friendships. Check out the anti-bullying alliance for further help.

Working to support speech and language

A recent BBC report highlighted the increase in the number of infant school children needing support for speech and language.

By Vanessa Clarke, Education Reporter & Paul Lynch & Paul Bradshaw, Shared Data Unit BBC News

The number of five and six year olds who need speech and language support at school has risen by 10% in England over the past year, BBC analysis shows.

The increase, which is substantially greater than previous years, is partly due to lockdown limiting social interactions, experts say. The Royal College of Speech and Language Therapists says the profession is struggling to cope with the demand. The government says it is investing £180m in early years development. The BBC's Shared Data Unit's analysis found that the number of children in Year 1 who needed help with their language use increased more than most other areas of special educational needs.

A total of 42,341 children required extra support in 2021/22, up from 38,560 in 2020/21.

This is the year group who started reception after the first lockdown and had considerable disruption to their early years learning.

Here at Witley, our teachers are currently working with our children to support speech and language delay by increasing the time children have to talk, allowing time to think before giving an answer and modelling answering in full sentences. There are lots of ways parents can help at home too so we can support children to improve their speech and language.

Tips for parents

- Make some time for playing and chatting with your child every day and follow their lead
- Make comments rather than asking your child lots of questions. Questions can feel like a test to children
- Share books with your child. This doesn't mean you have to read all the words - you can talk about the pictures
